LAUNCH INQUIRY IN APPALLING LOSS OF LIFE

DEATH TOLL IN SEA TRAGEDY 74, COURT ACTIONS STARTED

RUMBLE PORTEND SCANDAL IN SINKING OF S. S. SAN JUAN; 47 LIVES SAVED

SURVIVOR CHARGES THAT MANY OF CREW DESERTED; BOILER EXPLOSION KILLS MANY

By GEORGE D. CRISSEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 31.—Anxious searchers patrolled a bleak wind-blown coast line 50 miles south of here today for some trace of the 74 men, women and children drowned when the S. S. San Juan sank when rammed by the tanker Dodd.

And while relatives and friends of those lost in the Pacific coast's greatest maritime disaster in recent years prayed for their loved ones, federal authorities launched a searching inquiry into the sinking of the coastal steamer.

There were rumbles which portend a scandal more sensational than that of the ill-fated Vestris—there were charges from some of the survivors that ghastly loss of life was due to alleged cowardice of the crew.

Figures on the loss of life, caused when the aged San Juan collided with the big tanker became more definite as authorities checked up on the passenger list and crew records of the ill-fated ship.

Forty-two were saved and 74 are listed as missing, according to the revised figures. Two bodies, both of women, have been recovered. They were picked up from the ocean's surface a short distance from the scene of the wreck by the coast guard cutter Tahoe.

When the San Juan left here late Thursday on her regular run from San Francisco to Los Angeles, she carried 116 men, women and children. Of the survivors only 18 are passengers, the rest being members of the crew.

There were 66 passengers and a crew of 50 when the ship left port. Most of those who died were women and children.

The investigation, brought about by the appalling loss of life and because of criticism again permitting such an old ship as the San Juan to go to sea, was started today by the U. S. steamboat inspection service.

Captain John K. Bugler, supervising inspector of steamboats for the federal government, is in charge of the probe. The said the hull of the old San Juan was inspected April 13 of this year and pronounced sound.

The Dodd is being examined in the hope of determining who was at fault in the collision. The Dodd was damaged, with three holes in her starboard side, but was seaworthy.

The blow struck the San Juan would have sunk any ship, "no matter what her condition," Capt. Bugler said. The San Juan went to the bottom within five minutes after being struck.

Because Capt. Adolph F. Asplund went down with his ship the story of what happened on the bridge that night probably never will be known.

Capt. Hugo Oscar Blemchen of the Dodd told the story to federal steamboat inspectors at a special hearing this morning. He blamed the San Juan for the tragedy, saying the lights of ships were visible despite the fog off Pigeon Point but that the San Juan suddenly changed her course and cut across his path.

But a counter charge against the Dodd was made by the Los Angeles-San Francisco Navigation Co., operators of the White Flyer line and owners of the San Juan.

Officials of the company said the Dodd rammed the San Juan. Court hearings into tragedy loomed also. Two libel actions against the Los Angeles-San Francisco Navigation Co. have been filed in admiralty court. One is in behalf of those who died and totals 1,500,000. The other, for $300,000 is sought for loss of the San Juan's cargo.

That the list of dead may increase was revealed when it was admitted that the purser may have sold tickets on the boat. In that event the passengers so accommodated would not be listed ashore. The purser was not saved and his records went down with the ship.

There is no hope that more passengers will be saved. The generally accepted belief is that many of those aboard were killed by the collision and subsequent boiler explosion when the waters reached the San Juan's engine room.

The charge of cowardice on the part of the crew was made by Theodore Granstedt of Mountain View, Cal. Mrs. Granstedt is among the missing and Granstedt was seriously injured.

"Many of the crew deserted their post," Granstedt said at the emergency hospital where he was taken.

"No effort was made to save a soul," he added and then nurses stopped him from talking because his condition would not permit it. He was severely bruised and cut and was injured internally.

Mr. and Mrs. Granstedt were en route to Hollywood to stage a reunion with their daughter, Gerta, a motion picture actress.

British Rush Troops To Quell Arab Uprising

OFFICERS WEEP AS SONS THEY ARRESTED RECEIVE SENTENCES

Knoxville, Iowa, Aug. 31.—(U.P.)—Two men, both law enforcing officers in Marion county, sat in a court room here and, with tears streaming down their faces, saw the law take its toll upon their two sons, whom they had brought to justice.

Evan Gott, justice of the peace, and W. C. Pyle, constable, were the fathers who first arrested and then obtained confessions from their sons, Jonas Gott, 18, and Lyle Pyle, 20, that they had stolen a dozen chickens from a farmer living near here.

Judge E. W. Dingwell, a life long friend of both Gott and Pyle, sentenced the youths to indeterminate sentences of five years.

LARGEST STATE FAIR IN WORLD OPENS TO THOUSANDS TODAY

BIGGEST LIVESTOCK SHOW IN HISTORY OF NORTHWEST AT HAMLINE

DISPLAYS IN NEARLY EVERY DEPARTMENT ESTABLISH NEW RECORDS

St. Paul, Aug. 31.—(U.P.)—The gates of the Minnesota State Fair swung open today on what was heralded as the biggest livestock show in the history of the northwest and the largest state fair in the world.

Thousands of exhibitors worked all during the night to finish their displays in the horticulture, agriculture, livestock and industrial buildings. And neither were the concessionaires, the folk who distribute hot dogs, ice cream cones and taffy candy, idle.

Preparations were complete, however, for the thousands of persons who will visit the educational exhibits in the several buildings given over to women's work, boys' and girls' club work, farm machinery, school work and state departments.

Educational exhibits were in their places today from every part of the United States and from practically every community in Minnesota. Officials of the fair claimed that displays in nearly every department established new records.

Judging of poultry, agriculture, bee contests and horticulture began at 9 A. M. and will continue through next week until the close of the exposition Saturday. A feature in the exhibit buildings today was the home economics demonstrations of cooking, sewing and home decoration in the women's department.

Auto races were scheduled as the main attraction at the afternoon grandstand entertainment. The evening program will include an opening concert by 225 musicians from all sections of Minnesota in the state fair high school band.

A fireworks display in the evening, circus and acrobatic acts and vaudeville units will round out the grandstand program. Girl winners of personality contests from 12 towns, one of whom will be chosen "Hera, Goddess of the Sky" later in the week, will be introduced to the audience today.

Visitors to the fair today were greeted by one of the largest aircraft expositions ever shown in the northwest. Naval reserve aviation squadrons will demonstrate military flight formations during the week and stunt programs will be presented by other planes.

UNCOVER CHARRED REMAINS OF THREE

WORKMEN FIND BODIES, PARTLY DISSECTED, WRAPPED IN NEWSPAPERS

Elkton, Md., Aug. 31.—(U.P.)—Three bodies, which had been burned and partly dissected, were found in a wooded section near here today by workmen. The bodies were wrapped in Baltimore newspapers—dated July 21, 1929—and blankets.

The bodies were discovered by John Snelling, John Chamberlain and Joseph McVey, state highway department employees.

The men were at work on the road when they came across the bundles, lying back some distance from the road.

Loyal Order of Moose Meets at St. Cloud

St. Cloud, Aug. 31.—(U.P.)—The annual convention of the Minnesota Loyal Order of Moose and the Mooseheart Legion continued here today featured by the address of Dr. C. A. Ingerson, St. Paul, supreme state trustee. The convention will end tomorrow.

Graf Protected by Navy Against Attachment Proceedings Starts for Home Hangar Tonight

SEPT. 3 AT 7 A. M., ARRIVAL TIME AT FRIEDRICHSHAFEN

CAPTAIN ERNST LEHMANN EXPECTS TO CLIP TWO FULL DAYS FROM RECORD

SUIT TO OBTAIN REFUND OF PASSAGE MONEY MAY BE CARRIED TO FEDERAL COURT

Naval Air Station, Lakehurst, N. J., Aug. 31.—(U.P.)—New honors beckoned the Graf Zeppelin today across the sea to her home hangar in Friedrichshafen.

Protected by the navy against the attachment proceedings of a man who failed in his effort to obtain round-the-world passage aboard the craft, the Zeppelin was receiving last minute ministrations from mechanics, while food, cargo and mail awaited movement into her limited storage space.

At midnight tonight the Graf is scheduled to start for Friedrichshafen on a trip which seems assured of establishing a new record for round-the-world travel. If the ship touches ground in Friedrichshafen before 7:07 A. M. (EST) September 5, her record flight of 21 days, 7 hours and 32 minutes from Lakehurst to Lakehurst will have been broken in the flight from Friedrichshafen to Friedrichshafen.

Captain Ernst Lehmann, substituting on the last lap for Dr. Hugo Eckener as commander of the Graf, expects to reach the home hangar by 7 A. M., Sept. 3 and thereby clip two full days from the record. Fueling and gassing the dirigible are expected to be completed without delay. Passengers have been ordered to be aboard at 10 P. M.

The menace of legal proceedings did not interrupt the business of preparation. Under Sheriff J. G. Holman of Ocean county attempted to attach the Zeppelin yesterday after Otto Hillig, Liberty, N. Y., had filed suit to obtain refund of passage money which he said he had given in exchange for a ticket around the world. Killing alleged the passage was cancelled by the Zeppelin authorities.

Commander Maurice Pierce of the air station and Captain Von Schiller in charge of the Zeppelin said they refused to accept service from Holman. It was believed the case might be carried to federal court because the Zeppelin is on federal property.

Seventeen persons have been booked for passage to Germany. Unless the weather interferes a record crowd will have seen the Graf before she leaves tonight. The extra holiday is expected to enable many persons to come who have not previously been able to visit Lakehurst. Preliminary weather reports indicated favorable conditions for tonight's departure. A fresh cross hangar breeze would prevent the start but rain would not offer any serious obstacles.

Naval Air Station, Lakehurst, N. J., Aug. 31.—Two stowaways were discovered on the Graf Zeppelin today as final preparations were made for the journey to Friedrichshafen scheduled to begin at midnight.

J. Darbacher of the Graf Zeppelin company said the boys were found hiding in a cabin.

"We wanted to go to Germany," one of them explained.

"Is this the only way?" asked Darbacher.

"It's the quickest." The boys were reluctant to talk. They appeared to be of Italian descent and about 16 or 17 years old.

CROSSES OCEAN BY SLOOP IN 40 DAYS; STOWAWAY ABOARD

San Lucar de Barremeda, Spain, Aug. 31.—(U.P.)—The Spanish population was feted a new trans-Atlantic hero here today in the person of Francisco Cabellero, who spent 40 days in crossing from New York to Bonanza Beach in a sloop.

Cabellero on his arrival at Bonanza yesterday also had a young stowaway aboard, a boy named Roberto Lopez, who concealed himself in the sloop before it left New York. Altogether, Cabellero had been 84 days on the ocean, having sailed northward from Porto Rico to New York before starting across the Atlantic.

Around the Azores he encountered a storm that lasted 42 hours after which he was becalmed for ten days. Seamen who met him at his arrival marvelled over his achievement and the aristocratic colony at Bonanza gave him a cordial reception.

DROWNS AS SPOUSE IS WARNING OTHERS

CLOUDBURST BREAKS DAM; VACATIONISTS FLEE FOR THEIR LIVES

Colorado Springs, Colo., Aug. 31.—(U.P.)—A terrific cloudburst today broke a small dam on Fountain Creek near Crystola, 15 miles west of here, swept away eight mountain cabins in the Colorado college colony and forced forty summer vacationists to flee for their lives. Mrs. C. E. Emory, 55, wife of a Colorado Springs photographer, was drowned while her husband was warning other residents of their danger.

MINNEAPOLIS FLIER KILLED AT MANAGUA

Washington, Aug. 31.—(U.P.)—First Lieutenant Dwight J. Canfield, formerly of Minneapolis, who was taking one of the army's giant new bombing planes to the Panama Canal, was killed yesterday in an airplane accident at Managua, Nicaragua, the war department was informed today.

No details were received. Canfield has a minor son in San Antonio, Tex., living with Mrs. J. C. Dwight.

As final preparations were made for the journey to Friedrichshafen scheduled to begin at midnight.

J. Darbacher of the Graf Zeppelin company said the boys were found hiding in a cabin.

"We wanted to go to Germany," one of them explained.

"Is this the only way?" asked Darbacher.

"It's the quickest." The boys were reluctant to talk. They appeared to be of Italian descent and about 16 or 17 years old.

CRASH KILLS PILOT SOON AFTER SETTING NEW SOLO RECORD

BODY OF JACK REID MANGLED TERRIBLY; FIRST VICTIM AT CLEVELAND MEET

INTENTION TO STAY ALOFT UNTIL AFTER DAWN RESULTS IN DISASTER

Cleveland, O., Aug. 31.—(U.P.)—Death invaded the 1929 international air races today to claim its first victim, Thomas G. (Jack) Reid of Downey, Calif., who crashed into a tree in Lorian Woods near here but a few minutes after he had established a new world's solo endurance record at 1:01:08 A. M.

Reid's Emsco monoplane, powered with a Wright J-6 Whirlwind motor crashed head-on into the tree. The ship was demolished and Reid was mangled almost beyond recognition. His body was sighted by a searching navy plane.

Reid, although he had broken the record established by Lieut. Herbert J. Fahy, at Burbank, Calif., May 29, intended to stay aloft until after dawn.

CONCOCTS NEW REMEDY FOR RHEUMATISM CURE

New Britain, Conn., Aug. 31.—(U.P.)—Two policemen became suspicious when they saw a man seated cross-legged near a steaming cauldron in a lonely section.

The flickering fire beneath the kettle cast weird shadows.

Cautionously the officers approached and noted a peculiar odor.

The man appeared to be uttering a strange incantation as he stirred the brew, it ran something like this:

"Catch a cat, kill it, skin it, stew it, reduce the fat, bottle it, rub it into the joints seven times a day."

The man gave his name as John Resinski. He said he was trying out a recipe for rheumatism cure.

ST. CLOUD DAILIES NOW UNDER ONE HEAD

St. Cloud, Minn., Aug. 31.—(U.P.)—Fred Schilpin, editor and publisher of the St. Cloud Times, announced today that the Times Publishing Company had taken over the St. Cloud Journal Press the publication and circulation of which was absorbed by the Times.

Der Nordstern a weekly newspaper, half German and half English also was acquired by Schilpin and hereafter will be published only in German.

Alvah Eastman, former editor and publisher of the Journal Press has been made chief editorial writer of the Times, Schilpin said.

ROBS EIGHT FILLING STATIONS TO BUY WEDDING OUTFIT

Minneapolis, Aug. 31.—(U.P.)—First degree robbery charges were expected to be pressed here today against a robber whom police said confessed theft of $518 from eight filling stations for the purchase of wedding clothes. Each time he had sufficient funds to get the groom's outfit, the fellow said, he gambled, lost, and had to steal again.

RESTORES RAILWAY TO RUSSIA; MOVE SETTLES DISPUTE

NEW DEVELOPMENT IN CHINA-RUSSIA ROW BROUGHT ABOUT BY GERMANY

FORMER SOVIET EMPLOYEES ON RAILWAY TO RETURN TO POSTS

Moscow, Aug. 31.—(U.P.)—China has met the demand of the Soviet Union for an immediate restoration of the Chinese Eastern railway to a status quo ante as a preliminary condition for a conference for a peaceful settlement of the Manchurian dispute, it was announced here today.

In keeping with China's conciliatory move the Soviet government will reappoint a Russian manager for the disputed road and instruct all Soviet employees who have ceased work on the Chinese Eastern to return to their posts.

Thus an amicable settlement of the dispute which for a time threatened to inflame the far east seemed assured. The negotiations probably will begin at an early date.

The new development was brought about through an exchange of views through the German government, which has been acting as agent for both China and Russia since they broke off diplomatic relationships.

QUESTION LEGALITY OF GAME PRESERVE

REHEARING ON RELIEF MEASURE TO THREE COUNTIES ORDERED BY COURT

St. Paul, Aug. 31.—(U.P.)—The legality of the northern Minnesota game preserve, authorized by the last legislature as a relief measure for three tax-ridden counties, was again thrown into dispute today by the supreme court as the state prepared to absorb more than $300,000 worth of delinquent drainage ditch bonds in payment of the land.

On its own motion the state supreme court ordered a rehearing on the case, brought by Stanley Lyman, Minneapolis, on which it gave a decision upholding the constitutionality of the act a week ago.

The state constitution points out "that no law shall embrace more than one subject which shall be expressed in its title," and Lyman contended that the legislative act aimed to do two things—establish a game preserve and give financial aid to Koochiching, Lake of the Woods and Beltrami counties.

Lyman was given until Sept. 4 to file briefs and the attorney general until Sept. 9.

Payment of the first installment on the drainage ditch bonds which was to have begun Sept. 1, was held up pending the court's final decision.

URGES OPPOSITION TO HAWLEY TARIFF BILL

St. Paul, Aug. 31.—(U.P.)—Canadian opposition to the Hawley tariff bill has jeopardized construction of the proposed Great Lakes-St. Lawrence deep waterway to the sea, 500 Minnesota democrats were informed here by Senator Thomas J. Walsh, Montana.

The demands of the Hawley bill for "prohibitive duties" on Canadian farm products has so incensed Canada, Walsh said, that negotiations on the waterway have come to an end.

"It is not unlikely that much of the Canadian opposition to the waterway, which would mean a saving of millions of dollars to northwest farmers, is fomented on this side of the line," he said.

"New York City, whose influence in the national councils is not without weight, looks with no favor upon a project that would divert from it a very considerable trade although the losses to shippers due to congestion in that port are serious and the conditions occasioning them are well nigh irremediable."

Senator Walsh urged the northwest to lend no support to a tariff bill which would insist on high duties on Canadian products at a great loss of Canadian friendship and cooperation.

DISPATCH PLANES TO CHECK ADVANCE INTO PALESTINE

NUMBER KILLED SINCE BEGINNING OF RIOTING PLACED OFFICIALLY AT 164

BAND OF BEDOUINS DESCENDS ON NORTH PALESTINE TOWN; FIRES JEWISH QUARTER
(By United Press)

British troops and planes were speeding toward Safad today to restore order after a serious outbreak in which nine Jews were slain by a band of Bedouins who descended upon the north Palestine town and set fire to the Jewish quarter.

More than a score were injured in this new Arab attack and late reports from Safad said the situation continued grave. The British reinforcements were expected to arrive in the town sometime today. The troops travelling in requisitioned motor vehicles. An official communique issued by the British colonial office in London said it was reported a large force of Arabs had crossed from Syria into Palestine and continued to advance southward. British planes were sent to the north to check the advance.

Fighting between British troops and Moslems took place at several points in Palestine, but on the whole the country was quiet, with almost complete order restored in Jerusalem and other large centers.

By JACOB SIMON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Jerusalem, Aug. 31.—Large detachments of British troops, travelling in requisitioned motor cars, were speeding toward Safad today to quell the latest Arab uprising in which nine Jews were slain, many seriously injured and much of the city burned to the ground.

Samuel B. Crinstein, American director of the orphanage of Safad, was among the seriously injured. He was taken to a hospital in a critical condition.

The populace spent a night of terror. The Jewish houses in the Arab quarters were burned after being looted. More than 3,000 Jews collected in the police station for the night as a means of safety, in spite of the efforts of police to prevent the large gathering there in order to avoid a panic.

The latest official communique issued today put the total number of killed since the beginning of the riots at 164. Of this number 97 were Jews, 63 were Moslems and four were Christians. One hundred and thirteen Moslems, 150 Jews and nine Christians had been wounded.

The band of Bedouins swooped down upon the ancient city of northern Palestine and began to murder, pillage and burn. Further attacks by the marauding band was feared. The situation remained serious today, at least until large numbers of British troops arrived.

Many of the injured were in a serious condition. Stretchers and ambulance units were dispatched to the afflicted city along with the military forces.

The looting and incendiarism continued today in the Safad, which is located north of the sea of Galilee and close to the Syrian border. Much of the city was burned by the attackers.

Intermittent attacks were reported from various points in Palestine during the past 24 hours. Reports originating in the Syrian press were grossly exaggerated. It was believed here the Syrians were trying to provoke new outbreaks against the Jews by falsifying the news.

London, Aug. 31.—Exchange Telegraph dispatches from Cairo today said three Jews were killed in a resumption of fighting in Jerusalem late last night and that several other Jews were killed and wounded resisting a detachment of British troops who were trying to disarm them.

Jerusalem reports to the same news agency said fierce fighting had broken out in the Heisan neighborhood in the north, where the Arabs were reported to be massing along the plains. A large contingent of troops was sent to the sector to quell the new disturbance.

Fargo Attorney is Named Assistant Attorney General

Fargo, Aug. 31.—(U.P.)—Audrey Lawrence, Fargo attorney, today received notice from Washington that he had been appointed assistant to William B. Mitchell, attorney general. He will take oath of office here Sept. 6.

Attendance Records Broken at Southern Minnesota Fair

Owatonna, Aug. 31.—(U.P.)—All previous records for the four-day Southern Minnesota fair were broken this year when 80,953 persons passed through the turnstiles, fair officials announced today.

Arab tribesmen such as are pictured above present a serious problem to the British troops now in the field in the Palestine. The desert nomads know every foot of the wild forbidden terrain in the country surrounding Jerusalem and through guerrilla tactics can often hold off a large body of well trained troops. SERVICES in the CHURCHES

Christ Teaches Humility

Matthew 18:1-6. At the same time came the disciples unto Jesus, saying, Who is the greatest in the kingdom of heaven? 2. And Jesus called a little child unto him, and set him in the midst of them. 3. And said, Verily I say unto you, Except ye be converted, and become as little children, ye shall not enter into the kingdom of heaven. 4. Whosoever therefore shall humble himself as this little child, the same is greatest in the kingdom of heaven. 5. And whoso shall receive one such little child in my name receiveth me. 6. But whoso shall offend one of these little ones which believe in me, it were better for him that a millstone were hanged about his neck, and that he were drowned in the depth of the sea.

Ribbon Choker Collars

Among Paris Novelties

Little dog collars of metal ribbon with jeweled fastenings are shown among recent Paris novelties. They are not meant for dogwags but are suggested as accessories with suits and ensembles, particularly with satin costumes.

Another new neck ornament is a double row of beads with a heavy tassel of the beads fastening at the side. There is a short silver or gold chain connecting the tassel and loose end of the beads.

Blind Students Become

Adept at Horseshoes

Nebraska City, Neb.—Another outdoor sport has been added to the list of games in which the totally blind can participate. This game is horseshoes, which is played at Nebraska School for the Blind here.

Regulation size horseshoe courts were established by Superintendent N. C. Abbott shortly before summer vacation began. Several totally blind youths have become very proficient at pitching.

In playing the game a blind boy is partnered with a lad not entirely blind. The boy who can see stands near the peg at which his partner is shooting and calls out directions to him. The boys are not very old.

GRAPHIC OUTLINES OF HISTORY

By D. E. WHITNEY

Cincinnati in 1810 (from an early print)

In the last part of the 18th century, settlers poured into the Northwest. New communities started on the Scioto River and also at Losantiville, now called Cincinnati. About the same time, Cleveland, an agent of the Connecticut Land Company, founded the city now named after him—Cleveland—on Lake Erie.

Experienced ability and inherent courtesy are qualities that make our services sought by discriminating people.

The Factory Seeks the Open Spaces

DECENTRALIZATION of industry, made possible by present methods of distributing electric power, is building up the small towns at the expense of the large city and in that direction lies a hope for the extension of Brainerd, which has a strategic location, cheap power, railroads and highways, good schools, public utilities and all the other things to satisfy capital and labor.

According to the Minneapolis Journal such a change in industry is taking place, and, at least is the claim made by one of the great utility companies, in a report just issued, based on a survey of more than four thousand communities.

This interesting claim is supported by a wealth of statistics. Probably something of the kind is happening. At any rate, many key men of American industry, for some years now, have been urging this very decentralization.

In the early days of the Republic, as in pre-Revolutionary times, such industrial establishments as America possessed naturally developed along millstreams, principally in New England. Then came steam and the railroads, and industry, no longer dependent upon waterpower, began to move from the millstreams to the centers of transportation.

The present age brings a new situation. Power can be taken from either the millstream or the steam plant over high tension wires to wherever the manufacturer can find his proper combination of raw materials and labor supply. Rising transportation charges and urban congestion have been contributing causes. Living costs for workers are lower, and living conditions better, out in the small towns. And freighting compact finished products to points of consumption from factories near raw material sources, is more economical than freighting bulky raw materials long distances to manufacturing centers near points of consumption.

That is the picture which economists have been drawing lately, and study of regional industrial development tints it with verity. Factory payrolls are showing greater relative gains in the small towns than in the big cities.

Well, if the trend of industry is away from the great urban centers and toward the smaller communities, American life will be the gainer. Crowding industries into already crowded cities breeds slums and slum life, despite model housing legislation; whereas, planting factories in the smaller towns breeds blocks of comfortable cottages with lawns and trees. Furthermore, so long as the small town is merely the marketplace for agriculture, it is bound to suffer sharply from such blights as crop failures, but with a fair sized industrial payroll, its prosperity becomes more or less stabilized.

The day may not be so far distant when Minnesota will be smelting vast quantities of its own iron in electric furnaces, and transforming the resultant steel into merchantable commodities in scores of towns between Minneapolis and Lake Vermillion.

Minnesota Showed Them

THE St. Louis Post Dispatch remarks that the last Missouri legislature refused to authorize a state highway patrol, with the consequence that when a bank is robbed out in the state it is, as a rule, just too bad.

Minnesota is not so content to let highwaymen run amuck on the state highways. Three of these gentry robbed a bank at Elk River, Minn., and carried off $7,200. Within less than 24 hours the state highway patrol had captured all three of the robbers and recovered the loot.

Minnesota showed them.

Small Things Affect Credit

THE "souvenir value" of the new paper money has increased the circulation of the Federal Reserve Notes and has increased Federal Reserve credits.

Close to $90,000,000 was added to circulation. It was commented on in a recent issue of the Literary Digest.

The New York Journal of Commerce says the unusual fluctuation shows how easy it is for monetary and credit relationships to be affected by occurrences that have in them an element of the unexpected and even the childish. The episode of the new bills suggests the need for making careful allowance for those incalculable elements in human nature that interfere with orderly processes.

MAYBE Dr. Eckener is staying in America just to show the world there are other German airmen capable of handling Zeppelins. Captain Ernest Lehmann will command the Graf Zeppelin on its way home to Friedrichshafen.

WITH all the wisdom being syndicated daily by Dr. Cadman, Dr. Copeland, Arthur Brisbane, and other, the rest of us hardly have to do any thinking at all, says the Florence, Alabama, Herald.

It hurts a man these days to look at the pictures of the new 1930 automobile models as he scans the pages of his favorite magazine and then go out in the yard and clean up the old bus.

WE always knew the Gold Dust twins were vigorous kids, but had no idea they could buy up a whole cigar merchandising industry.

THAT's a nice convention the local DeMolay boys have brought to Brainerd. It will draw an attendance of over 300 boys next year.

"THE first hundred biscuits are the hardest," read a line in one of the household comedies shown by W. R. Hiller at the Lyceum.

CARRYING the stock ticker to sea now suggests the idea that many a stock speculator may be at sea in his operations.

As the automobiles increase it is becoming harder for the pedestrian to stand up for his rights.

THERE is one user of a fast car who likes its quick get away trait and that's the average bandit.

CHALLENGE ALL BABIES

Jane (left) and Joan Taylor of Batavia, Ill., who walked away with the twin division championship of the better babies contest held at the Central States Fair at Aurora, aren't willing to rest on their laurels. They rated a score of 98.2 per cent and their home county, Kane, challenges any other county to produce a baby who will prove more perfect than Jane or Joan.

PHILCO BALANCED UNIT
SCREEN GRID RECEIVER

In a cabinet of soft two-toned brown, the new Philco Balanced-Unit Table Model is on display in the window of Hall's Music House.

This receiver is a strictly A. C. 4-tube Screen Grid set, using two new UX245 power tubes in push-bull audio. It has the new Philco tuning dial, giving kilocycle channel numbers, and has true one dial tuning.

Philco Balanced Units mean that every electrical part is carefully matched and balanced by means of the most rigid and exact manufacturing and testing methods so that each condenser, resistance and inductance work together at the peak of efficiency presenting a clear path through the set for the desired radio impulse so that it reaches the ear free from distortion and set noises and as clear as when it leaves the broadcast station.

The Table Model priced at $67.90 gives radio buyers an opportunity to have a most modern Screen Grid receiver, with its tremendous amplification and wonderful tone, at a price that no one ever dreamed possible a few months ago.

Friends you can trust

Advertised products are your friends wherever you find them. You know them. And you can buy them with confidence—sure of honest value for your money. For they have stood the test of public scrutiny, they have been advertised and found worthy.

For advertising, after all, is a test—a trial by the fire of public approval. Today no manufacturer would start advertising his products unless he knew they were sound and good. And if errors did creep in, he would be quick to correct them, for to hold business he must uphold the confidence advertising has created among millions of people for his wares.

Advertising brings protection to the consumer. It guarantees honest value. It sends quality up. The manufacturer who advertises builds up such a volume of sales that he gives far more in both quality and quantity than the non-advertiser can possibly do.

Seek out your friends—the advertised products. Favor the dealer who handles them. Look for them on the shelves. Watch for them in the show windows. They are the hallmarks of a good business house. They are negotiable guarantees of value. They are friends you can trust.

Advertised products are sometimes not the cheapest you can buy; but they are always the cheapest to own

ONCE AGAIN IT'S BOBBY JONES AGAINST THE FIELD

CHAMPION SHATTERS NEW YORKER COPS WRIGLEY MARATHON SWIM

SHOOTING BETTER THAN PREVIOUS RECORD: 140 TO TEE OFF IN NATIONAL

GEORGE VON ELM AND GEORGE VOIGHT AMONG LEADING CONTENTENDERS

By FRANK GETTY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Pebble Beach, Calif., Aug. 31.—There is a smile of satisfaction on Bobby Jones' face today. And if the 140 odd golfers who will seek his title next week aren't wearing worried frowns, it's because they are concealing their feelings.

For in the cool of Friday evening, when wisps of fog were beginning to drift in from Carmel Bay, the amateur champion nonchalantly completed a round of 67 over the Pebble Beach course, setting a well high unapproachable mark for the rest of the field to shoot at.

National championships, of course, are not won in practice rounds, but considering the fact that Bobby's score is six strokes better than the record which existed before the boys gathered here it is bound to be a bit discouraging to the others.

Shooting seven birdies on nine consecutive holes Friday afternoon, the amateur title-holder indicated to all and sundry that he holds the coveted Pebble Beach course in the hollow of his capable hand.

With George Von Elm, George Voight and others, who are to be seeded if they qualify, performing most indifferently on the eve of the championship there is none to stand out as a formidable challenger—unless it be Phillips Finlay, of Ireland, who has been carding consistently low rounds. The Maryland youth had a 71 Friday, about the best effort of the day aside from Bobby's 67.

In making that 67, which, by the way, is five strokes better than par for the championship course, the champion called into play his best putting touch—assisted by a brand new putter, Miss Calamity Jane, Jr. Calamity Jane herself is no more.

The putter Bob used with such devastating effect here and abroad through a dozen national championship has sunk its last 40-footer. But there's nothing the matter with the new one. It curls 'em in from unbelievable distances.

Fourteen withdrawals up until 5 P. M. Friday and the absence of 10 other entrants made it appear likely that the field which originally numbered 162 might not exceed 140 by Monday morning.

KEATING FINISHES FIRST IN 15 MILE RACE AT THE C. N. E.

POWERFUL OVERHAND STROKE CARRIES HIM TO VICTORY OVER VIERKOETTER

LITTLE HEARD OF SWIMMER SHOWS REMARKABLE STAMINA; OUTDISTANCES 237

Toronto, Ont., Aug. 31.—Edward F. Keating of New York was recognized as one of the world's best long distance swimmers as a result of his victory in the 15-mile annual Wrigley marathon race, feature of the Canadian National Exhibition.

The New York swimmer, who before the Wrigley event, had won but one race of any length, that being the Lake George, N. Y., marathon drill three years ago, displayed remarkable courage and stamina to out-distance 237 other competitors through the chilly waters of Lake Ontario.

Keating's powerful overhand stroke carried him to victory by 500 yards over Ernst Vierkoetter, giant German, who finished second.

Norman Ross of Chicago, who led the field during a large part of the 15-mile grind, weakened badly near the end but managed to outgame Isadore Sponzor of Port Colborne, Ont., a 17-year-old boy, for third place.

CANADIAN CREWS IN LEAD AT WHITE BEAR

White Bear Lake, Minn., Aug. 31.—(UP)—Determined to win Canada's first championship in the international racing regatta, the Royal St. Lawrence Yacht club of Montreal sent its boats out over the 16-mile course here today in the final event of three days of competition.

The Canadian crews held a margin of 2 points over the United States entries and their lighter boats were expected to triumph today if too heavy a wind does not sweep the course.

Yesterday's Hero—Henry Meine who held Chicago to three useless hits and blanked the Cubs, 15 to 0. It was Chicago's fourth defeat in a row at the hands of Pittsburgh's fighting Pirates and the worst defeat they have suffered this year.

Dizzy Vance checked the Giants with four hits but it took 10 innings to turn the trick. Travis Jackson's fumble and Hank Deberry's double in the 10th gave Brooklyn a 2 to 1 victory. Carl Hubbell held the Robins to eight hits.

Chuck Klein hit his 34th home run of the season at Boston as Philadelphia beat the Braves, 9 to 5, in a free-hitting game.

Jack Russell beat George Earnshaw in a mound duel at Philadelphia and Boston beat the A's 4 to 2, in the only game of the day in the American League. It was Earnshaw's second unsuccessful attempt to win his 20th game of the year.

CHILEAN TO EXTEND MANDELL TO LIMIT

TOO LITTLE FIGHTING AGAINST TOP-NOTCHERS SHOWS UP CHAMPION

Chicago, Aug. 31.—(UP)—Lightweight Champion Sammy Mandell next week will attempt to prove that the comparatively bad showing he made against Tony Canzoneri here recently merely was the result of an "off night."

Sammy will meet Luis Vincentini, a Chilean, who is one of the best of the 135 pounders. Since Mandell won't be risking his title the best Vincentini can hope for is a victory which would force the champion into a return match for the crown.

Sammy has a large evening before him. The Chilean really can fight and he carries a hefty punch in either hand. So well has Vincentini shown here that there are many confident he will force Mandell to the limit.

In his title with Canzoneri, Mandell was far from the fighter he was when he whipped Jimmy McLarnin. Sammy admitted he was disgusted with his showing.

"Don't ask me to explain it," he said, "I can't. I guess I looked pretty bad. I couldn't get started."

Eddie Kane, Mandell's manager said he believed the showing was the result of too little fighting against top-notchers. "We've have to fight some good boys and you'll see a different fighter when Sammy goes into the ring the next time."

Against Vincentini, Mandell will need all of the lightning which characterized his left hand before the Canzoneri fight. It was inability to control the left that allowed Canzoneri to get over some hard smashes on Sammy's jaw.

If Vincentini lands as many on the jaw as Canzoneri did, they'll probably be carrying Mandell out of the ring for the Chilean's punch is much harder than Tony's.

WINS RAJAH'S PRAISE

Woody English, Cub shortstop, has been playing a spectacular fielding game lately, so much so that the great Rajah Hornsby predicts that he will be the greatest shortstop in the game in a year or two. English came from Toledo in 1926, but didn't make his bow as a Cub until the Spring of 1927.

EDISON CONFINED TO BED WITH GRIPPE

West Orange, N. J., Aug. 31.—(UP)—A severe cold has caused Thomas A. Edison, the inventor, to be confined to bed at his home here for the past ten days, it was learned today. His son, Charles, president of the Edison Industries, announced that his father's condition is not serious and more favorable today than before.

The inventor is believed to have overtaken himself recently while working on the contest to choose the nation's brightest boy. He is 82 years old.

Edison is being treated by his personal friend and physician, Dr. J. H. Bradshaw of Orange. Another doctor has been called, but both refuse to discuss the case.

KASCH ISSUES CALL TO GRID CANDIDATES

MEETING TO BE HELD IN OLD COURT HOUSE ASSEMBLY AT 3 P. M. TUESDAY

Resuming his duties here for the coming year, Coach Warren E. Kasch today announced a meeting of all football candidates for 3 P. M. Tuesday in the old court house assembly.

The first practice of the season will follow the meeting.

A heavy schedule is on hand for the 1929 squad. Eight games have already been booked, there being but one open date. The schedule includes games with Altlin, Wadena, Staples, Milaca, St. Cloud, Little Falls, Park Rapids and Crosby-Ironton.

Last year 54 reported for football, nearly double the number that formerly reported. An even larger number of candidates is expected this year. Eight lettermen will report.

BABE RUTH HITS 38TH HOME RUN TODAY

Yankee Stadium, New York, Aug. 31.—(UP)—Babe Ruth increased his lead in the major league home run race today when he hit his 38th home run of the season in the second game against Washington. Two men were on base and Burke was pitching.

The Dynamiting Singer

UNLESS some unexpected delay occurs the historic Polo Grounds at New York City will be the scene of another ring classic, Thursday night, when Al Singer, of Gotham's own Bronx, beats Kid Chocolate of Havana in a scheduled 12-round bout at the novel compromise weight of 128½ pounds at 2 o'clock, about eight hours before the opening gong.

Singer, who was knocked out by Ignacio Fernandez a few months ago, did not fold up after that sad reverse. Al is young and seems to have plenty of heart. He is famed for his own K. O. punch which Andre Routis, featherweight champ, sampled a few weeks back. That decisive victory earned Singer a chance with the Cuban sensation.

Of all this Summer's fistic attractions, the Singer-Chocolate golems as the very best. Both are high-class boxers with plenty of punching power and both corners. Al and the Kid each flame with ambition to merit listing with the great boxers. They have huge and enthusiastic followings in and around New York City. Their clash is "a natural" if ever there was one.

So far, Chocolate has never taken a real beating. Most of his backers believe he is invincible. But Singer should put the Cuban to the test of real class. Schooled almost in the same environment as Benny Leonard, Al shows many of Benjamin's championship qualities. His home section of Greater New York—the Bronx—believes it has another Benny in Al. In its popular region, they're predicting that Singer will whip Chocolate and even K. O. him in that crumbling process.

This week-end, fans everywhere will know whether New York has, at last, another Leonard in the person of the intelligent, collegiate-looking, ring-wise Al Singer

Coming Batting Champs?

ONLY paralyzing reversals of form can prevent Babe Herman and Jimmy Foxx from topping, respectively, the National and American leagues in batting this season. As the home stretch approaches, both are in commanding positions and each should continue as such barring accident or illness.

Herman of the Brooklyn team has been noted as a slugger ever since joining the big time. This Babe is a miniature Ruth of no small proportions. Herman is his specialty. This year, Herman has been hitting with remarkable consistency. He is so good at the bat, in fact, that it compensates for his mediocre fielding. You know, Herman could not make the grade at first base so they shifted him to the outfield where—well, he's making a game effort to improve.

Foxx of the Athletics is close to being already the season's most dazzling all-round star. Jimmy plugged what was the big gap in Connie Mack's machine at first base. The "A's" might have won last year with a star at that sack. This season, Foxx, who can play any position, was assigned to Base No. 1. Both in the field and at bat, he came up to fondest expectations. Jimmy hits to all fields and connects smartly with all types of pitching. He's very young and fast, with the strength that stands up splendidly in long and hard campaigns.

Herman is the hero of one of baseball's most historic incidents. He was the first player called on to pinch-hit for Ty Cobb when that "greatest of them all" began to slip!

Foxx's biggest moment thus far came last year when he knocked a homer over the left-field stands in Shibe Park—"the longest hit I ever saw," according to such an ideal judge as Connie Mack himself!

DON'T CUSS MOTOR, IT MAY MEAN JAIL

Swearing Outside Home Is Violation in England.

London.—Under one of the latest restrictions, to write or use a rubber stamp on any of the new currency notes is an offense punishable by a fine. As no such obligation existed in regard to previous issues, it is difficult, when handling notes in large numbers, to avoid violations of the new rules.

This, by no means, is the only act that is likely to trap the unwary. In a recent case at the Middlesex police court, two girls were fined for selling artificial flowers without a license. Had the blooms been real no such regulation would have been necessary.

The law relating to life on the road bristles with difficulties. For instance, while one may beg for cold water, to ask for hot is a misdemeanor. Further, although it is permissible to swear with impunity in your own house, to do so out of doors is to invite disaster.

The law relating to the ownership of fallen trees also is likely to trip many. If they are unsound or rotten, they are the perquisite of the tenant, but if the timber in them is of good quality and worth selling, they belong to the owner of the land.

Another act says an egg, to be new-laid, must be an egg laid in England, no matter how long ago; or that, while one may sell loganberries at any hour, to offer for sale green figs after 8 p. m. is to render one liable to a fine.

But perhaps the easiest of all laws to break is the one regarding the temperature of workshops wherein men are employed. In Kent, the officials of a concern were summoned because the temperature of the works was not more than six degrees higher than that prevailing outside. By giving an assurance that they would see that their employees enjoyed the warmth required by the act their case was eventually dismissed after payment of the costs.

Find Petrified Trees Buried in Texas Sand

Eagle Pass, Texas.—A forest of petrified trees rivaling the Redwood giants of California in size lies partially buried beneath the sand hills northeast of here.

Hidden by sparse growth of mesquite, cactus, and hush grass the fallen giants are almost unknown even to the scattered residents of the surrounding country. The trees are buried, except for a few, beneath the sandy soil of low hills.

Cylindrical sections of the ancient trees vary in width from six to twelve feet. Some lie scattered above the surface. Many have one end above the ground with the other end buried.

The area, although little known now, is a paradise for geologists and paleontologists. The rock trunks show bark rings and grain effect of wood. In some places bumps and knots supporting olden limbs are visible. Some of the trees have spongy-looking wood with wide grain and heavy outside bark. Other specimens are close grained.

The color of the stone varies from a deep black, with streaks of brown and red, to a speckled gray.

Englishman Seeks to Renew Long Lost Love

Monmouth, Wales.—After fifty years of waiting, a tinplate worker of Pontypool, near this city, is still looking for his sweetheart whom he wishes to marry.

Fifty years ago this tinplate worker, then twenty-nine years old, fell in love with a girl of his village. They quarreled and he went to Swansea, where he married a Swansea valley girl. She died shortly after and he then heard his first sweetheart had married.

For fifty years he has been waiting patiently for her. A few months ago he heard that her husband had died. The aged man has now returned to Pontypool and his looking for his first sweetheart to make her his wife.

U. S. Scientists Fight New Factory Disease

Washington.—Scientists of the United States public health service are engaged in examinations of nearly 200 factory workers exposed to radium rays in an effort to save them from the ravages of a new industrial disease. The tests are being made with the aid of an electroscope, imported from Europe.

Dr. L. R. Thompson, in charge of the survey, said there are now forty-two known radium poisoning cases in this country and the disease has taken a toll of twenty-one lives.

This Animal Lived 17,000,000 Years Ago

Waukesha, Wis.—The skeleton of an organism that lived 17,000,000 years ago, has been found by Harold L. Caspar, head of the Fossil club of amateur geological explorers here. This animal, which science has named calymene, of the trilobite family, is said to be the first inhabitant of the upper silurian crust. These crustaceans were the first living things to have eyes and the power to crawl.

No Arsenic in Garlic

The Department of Agriculture says that under ordinary circumstances garlic does not contain arsenic. There have been cases recorded in which an arsenic spray was used on the blossoms of fruits and vegetables which later resulted in a small quantity of arsenic being found in the matured fruit or vegetable. However, this is rare.

BODY OF NELS KNUTSON FOUND IN RIVER TODAY

64 Hour Search for Aged Northeast Man Ends When Body Found Near Crosby

IDENTIFIED BY RELATIVES

Hands Clasp Grass as if Man Tried to Save Himself From Falling in Water

A 64 hour search for Nels Knutson, 78 years old, missing from his home at 515 10th avenue N. E. since Wednesday ended today with the finding of his body in the Mississippi river north of Crosby.

The body was identified at the Koop mortuary, Crosby, this afternoon by Hans M. Knutson, a son.

In the hands of the dead man were tufts of grass as if he had tried to save himself from falling into the water. The body which was found by a tourist as he prepared to snap a picture of the river from a bridge will be brought to Brainerd this afternoon.

Relatives believe that Mr. Knutson secured a ride with people Wednesday afternoon and confused in his directions travelled with them to Crosby, believing his home there.

One of his shoes was off at the time indicating that Mr. Knutson sat down on the bank of the river to rest and that after taking off the shoe he fell in the water. Mr. Koop judged that the body had been in the water for about ten hours.

One year ago Mr. Knutson became lost from a party of blueberry pickers near Rice Lake. He wandered about in the woods for 36 hours before found lying on the shore of the Mississippi river in a critical condition from exposure and hunger.

There were no marks of violence on the body.

The firm of Hawkins and Welch has bought out the hardware stock in the J. W. Koop store. Mr. Welch, it is understood, will take charge of the stock and will do business in the Koop store until the new McKay building is completed on the corner of Laurel and Seventh streets.

Miss Helen Anderson has returned from an extended eastern trip and will be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. H. Theviot for a short time.

Mrs. A. M. Opsahl returned from Minneapolis this afternoon where she has been visiting for a short time.

The glass front is being put in the new store room in the Columbian block and the room will be ready for M. K. Swartz to move his drug stock in a few days.

Mrs. George A. Keene and Miss Kitty Keene returned this afternoon from the Twin Cities where they have been visiting.

Mrs. E. S. Houghton and son, Howard, returned today from Minneapolis where they have been visiting for a short time.

Ernest Dinnoek and Ernest Cavender, clerks at the National, returned this afternoon from the state fair, where they enjoyed themselves for a few days.

The festival and bazaar at the St. Francis church last evening was a success, financially as well as socially. The ladies netted $130 from the affair.

Mrs. M. O. Herving and daughter, Frances, have returned from a visit to the state fair.

Mrs. Julia McFadden left for St. Paul this afternoon for a few days visit.

Charles (Buddy) Rogers and Mary Brian in "River of Romance" A Paramount Picture

Good looks and youth are two of the most desirable assets an actor can have on the screen today.

Proof of this is found in the brief but meteoric paths to success of a screen trio everybody knows—Charles "Buddy" Rogers, Mary Brian, and June Collyer.

All three of these young and good-looking actors will be seen in "River of Romance," a Paramount picture which shows at the Lyceum theatre Sunday only.

New England Orchids

Among our rarest and most beautiful plants are the orchids of which, in 1884, forty-seven varieties were listed as having actually been found in New England, but even then, several, such as Perianthus menziesii and Pogonias affinis, were very rare.

WRITES SHORT ARTICLE

Writer's Digest Publishes Article by Arthur J. La Belle of Brainerd

Arthur Jean LaBelle, Brainerd, received a request some time ago to write a short article for the Writer's Digest. The following article by Mr. La Belle appeared in the September issue of the Writer's Digest in response to the request.

It may interest and inspire readers to learn that the seed of romance was planted in the advertising columns of White's Digest—and carried to a high realization of happiness through and by reason of the dominant creative writing instinct of two minds.

The urge to become a story teller was awakened within me at an early age by my father who was a French Canadian "Conteur" much in demand for evening gatherings of the people of Northern Quebec. Over and over again I listened to his stories and marveled at his ability to hold the spell-bound interest of his audience for hours, the while I desperately fought boyish sleep to guard my place in the circle.

It was during this period of my life, when I was little more than nine years old, that my father once said to me: "My son, there exists in this world the right woman for every man. You are only a little fellow now, but somewhere there is a little girl who is to become your wife. She may be in this country, in this very town, or perhaps across the ocean, but life will bring you together—and when you meet her you will know." These words have lived in my mind through the years and I shall never forget them. How he found his woman is another story but it is significant that he saw her only once before their wedding day, and that he and my mother celebrated their golden wedding in 1927.

In was in 1922 while acting in the position of social secretary to a Chicago school of music that I began to find time and material for the development of my writing to write. For several years I also revised and typed manuscripts for other Chicago writers, one of them a novelist.

The March, 1926, issue of Writer's Digest carried my advertisement with its message to authors. The first response through this medium was a 4,000-word manuscript from Miss Islay Mary McColl of Brainerd, Minnesota, whose writing was unusually interesting and I found joy in typing for her. The completed work prompted her to write an enthusiastic letter of appreciation and thanks, with the promise that all of her manuscripts would be submitted to me. This contact was the nucleus of a correspondence which grew into more than a thousand letters because of the perfect attainment of our minds. On June 22, 1929, we were married.

Having joined forces in Brainerd, Minnesota, we are writing in collaboration and conducting a service bureau for authors. Manuscripts which come to us for revision receive careful professional attention plus a generous touch of human sympathy and desire to render the best possible assistance to fellow writers who favor us with their confidence.

We shall never miss an issue of Writer's Digest which has been an inspiration and help to us for a number of years, and is now forever endeared because of its priceless service in helping to verify the words of my good father.

Who says there is no romance in business?

Arctic Hardships as Basis of New Film

Six persons, of widely varying circumstances and temperaments, nursed in a primitive shack in the wilds of the far North, provide the dramatic situation in "The Sin Sister," which shows at the Lyceum theatre tonight.

With the food supply exhausted and rescue apparently impossible, the reactions of the six central figures of this stirring drama comprise a plot that is most gripping.

Eugenics Not So New

Some commentaries of the ancient Jewish Talmud in line with modern eugenic principles were reported by William Grossman, Hebrew scholar of Passaic, N. J., to the American Eugenics society.

A New Door needed on the Back Porch

The Back Door looks a little neglected, doesn't it? For one thing, the screening has rusted and fallen away in spots. Doesn't keep the flies out. And the delivery boys and the ice man have soiled the woodwork. It does look messy. It isn't much of a job to put in new netting and to paint the main door and the frame of the other. Let's get busy. What do you say?

JUDGE TO TEST POWER OF FORTUNE TELLER IN PASSING SENTENCE

St. Louis, Aug. 31.—(U.P.)—More likely than not, when Mrs. Mayne Meyers appears before Police Judge Rosecan here Friday, Sept. 13th, he will ask her what her sentence will be. And that doesn't mean she can name her own punishment.

Mrs. Meyers was arrested for fortune telling but denied the charge claiming to be a student of applied psychology. Police women testified they paid Mrs. Meyers $1 each to apply psychology and thus estimate their approximate futures.

Judge Rosecan continued the case because "my psychology is really a bit foggy today. I want to do some reading on the subject. Perhaps on September 13 you'll be able to tell my decision in your case."

Y. M. C. A. CLUBS TO FUNCTION AGAIN

Resume Activities in Brainerd With Start of School Term

HI-Y OFFICERS TO MEET

Cabinet Meeting of Girls Tri-Hi Club to be Held Next Week

The Y. M. C. A. clubs will start next week to resume activities again for the new year with the starting of school. The Hi-Y officers will meet Wednesday evening for the first cabinet meeting of the season and outline plans for an opening meeting for the club the following week which will be in the form of a supper meeting. A very successful year is predicted for the Hi-Y, there being more than 20 of the last year members to continue this year.

A cabinet meeting of the girls Tri-Hi club will also be held next week and they will resume regular weekly meetings beginning the following Monday evening.

Six clubs are outlined in the starting of the "Y" program, besides the Hi-Y and Tri-Hi, there are the Pioneers, Pathfinders, Tigers and the Torch club, the last being a new one in the Brainerd association. The Torch clubs are well known in city associations and churches and no doubt will fit in well with the local program. A preliminary meeting will be held on Thursday evening for the Torch club, and a regular Pioneer meeting will be held on Friday evening.

For the younger boys clubs, boys from the fifth grade and up, who have the consent of their parents will be accepted into the clubs until each club has a complete membership.

LOWEY RECEIVES EDISON PRIZE

W. C. Cobb Presents State Contest Winner With Radio-Phonograph

Yesterday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock W. C. Cobb, superintendent of the Brainerd schools presented John Lowey, recent representative of Minnesota in the Edison scholarship contest, with an Edison Radio-Phonograph Combination, at the Folsom Music Company, exclusive Edison dealers in Brainerd.

Mr. Cobb recalled briefly the honors that have been heaped on Brainerd young people in the last few years. He related the happening of a year ago when Carl Zapffe, Brainerd boy scout, was chosen for a trip to New York to compete for a trip to Africa and although Carl was not selected for the final trip, Brainerd was proud of her native son.

Again when Dale Sanders, was selected as best in a state wide musical contest, Brainerd was pleased, although his promised trip to Europe failed to materialize.

Mr. Cobb also mentioned the competition in composition in which William McClenahan won the $100 prize.

In speaking of the latest honor attained by a Brainerd boy, Mr. Cobb said: "We are all exceedingly proud that a Brainerd boy was picked for this competition ahead of the representatives of other Minnesota cities. And when the people of Brainerd heard that John Lowey was selected to represent Minnesota in the Edison scholarship contest they thought it a wise choice."

"The best wishes and good will of the community goes with this gift. You may be sure that the people of Brainerd are proud of you and that they extend their hearty congratulations and friendship."

John's acceptance was brief. "Mr. Cobb, Mr. Edison and Mr. Folsom, I thank you," he said.

IDEAL

Miss Beatrice Allers spent a few days last week visiting her folks, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Allers of Camp Fire Lodge. She has been in the Glenwood sanatorium for the past two years. She is feeling fine and we hope she may be back again soon.

FESTIVAL OPENS AT LUM PARK TONIGHT

75 Mile Marathon Outboard Motor Race to Feature Sunday's Program

CROWN QUEEN MONDAY

Labor Day Activities to Include Marathon Swim, Running Race, and Dance

The harvest Festival opens at Lum Park tonight with a "happy hop" carnival dance with music by Jack Kane's popular orchestra.

Sunday afternoon the 75 mile marathon outboard motor race will be run off with several entries from other cities. Carl Olson, Geo. Berklholder and Dick Parks will represent the local boat club, while the Ryan entry from Duluth is primed to keep up the reputation as a sure winner. This combination of boat and motor just attained national distinction by winning over the famous "Four Horsemen."

Swimming, diving and roller skating will complete Sunday's program.

Monday, Labor Day, will see the crowning of the "Queen of Vacationland" as well as the championship marathon swim.

This swim will include such well known swimmers as Charles Ballard of Oklahoma City, holder of numerous swimming and diving championships, Dick Robischon of Little Falls, who has attained quite a reputation for his prowess, "Happy" Abrahamson and Jake Preston, both of Brainerd, who certainly need no introduction, their athletic ability being well known.

The marathon run will bring together three rivals in long distance racing, Harold Moe, Kenneth Malmstrom and Adolph Ottelin, with several others still to enter. These boys all click the miles off in under six minutes in distance races. A close race is predicted.

Roller skating is also on the program for the afternoon, with a big Labor Day dance in the evening with Jack Kane's orchestra playing.

Special prizes will be given during this dance.

Concessions are being put in place which include lolly pops, ball game, palmist, shoot to win, spindle and pitch to win games.

Blue Blood And Red

by ROBERT TERRY SHANNON

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

EDDIE REGAN has been persuaded to join a gang of which the "Big Guy" is the leader. Bernice Veressi, a "gang girl," is in love with Eddie, but he becomes disgusted and breaks away. Boarding a freight train, he makes his escape to Virginia, where he meets Marian Thorndike. Penfield Paradine, Southern aristocrat, suffers from a stroke, and Marian and Eddie revive him. Eddie finds shelter under Paradine's roof, and while Eddie and he are talking, Paradine takes a turn for the worse. Marian calls to inquire for him, and Eddie realizes the gulf which yawns between him and the girl of his dreams.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER VIII.

HE was intoxicated with his own thoughts. Here was a new realm and kingdom to be achieved. It was all shot through with the glamour of the unknown, the lure of romance. Now, as never before, Life flung him a challenge. This was adventure, an opportunity to work with his head and hands and heart. A whole world, beautiful with a purple haze, was waiting to be conquered—and, irresistibly, from the consecration of his spirit there flooded through him a great idea reinforced by a startling determination—he could win, could multiply his strength and aspire until his life would unite with that gold-colored fineness of the girl who was already filling his soul.

Subconsciously, he drew a cigarette from his pocket and filled his lungs with a whiff of smoke—exhaled in a slow, thoughtful preoccupation.

"I've got something to live for," he meditated, "but what a nerve!" At last, he realized, he had met the girl—the girl that expelled all other women from his consciousness. Actually, he had never paid much attention to girls. Bernice Veressi had blasted through him like a shock of lightning, but he knew now that her appeal had been only to the senses, to the body. Her power had evaporated and had left behind a tinge of remorse, but he had been no more than human—a fellow couldn't exactly be as remotely pure as a girl—a girl like Marian Thorndike.

His own person and his mind, he knew, were gross and he was unfit to touch her hand—but it was possible, he insisted to himself violently, for a man to be swept out of his past and leave it behind—it was like throwing away a discarded suit of clothes.

His whole mind, now, was filled with thoughts of Marian. He had talked with her, had looked into her eyes and beheld a glimmering vision of a beautiful spirit.

But there was more to her than an idea; there was flesh and warmth, form and expression. There was gold in her hair, the blue of the sky in her eyes. Still, he could not imagine her body composed of flesh as his own. She was made of a finer, magic material. Around her was a mist—a lovely, quivering emanation of her spirit, a nebulous halo that poured out from the uncontaminated pith of her being.

He was startled to find that he was able to think in such terms of a woman.

The realization of it was almost blinding. It was a miracle of luck—an almost supernatural revelation—that had enabled him to find her out among the teeming millions on the face of the earth. He was like a man stunned by an unbelievable inheritance. The effect of it was to make him humble and self-condemning—yet there was a song that sang wildly with uncanny hope in his blood.

Perhaps it was a wild-riding madness that flooded him. He envisioned himself struggling upward toward her, daring to picture himself sharing her manner of life, uniting his thoughts with hers in lovely and delightful companionship. His dreams, tingling with excitement, were refined above anything soiled as they soared into a region of palpitating bliss.

He went back to the house and found Tobe putting about in the wide kitchen. The girl was so much in his thoughts that Eddie was utterly unable to restrain the desire to talk about her. Yet, he tried to be shrewd enough to conceal his state of mind.

"Does Miss Thorndike live near us?"

Tobe's eyes looked at him, yellowish and not over-friendly.

"'Bout three—fo' miles."

A new thought, cruel and terrifying, crept into Eddie's mind.

"Does she—is she going with any fellow? I mean is she engaged to anybody?"

"Kain't say 'bout her being engaged, but Miss Marian shuah has got plenty young gennulium pestering 'n' round her. Yaas, suh. 'Dar ain't no young lady in dis eery county got so many beaux."

Eddie, unconsciously, was pathetic. "But—but she ain't engaged?"

Tobe looked at him and shook his head.

"Young man—you rest yore mind 'bout Miss Marian. She ain't got no time for any strange Yankee. When she gets married, it's guine to be wid quality. No suh, you is between the hawk an' de buzzard, an' dah ain't no hope on earth fo' yore chances."

Eddie thought he detected a note of antagonism in old Tobe's manner. The black man had read his mind concerning Marian Thorndike, and had told him, frankly, that his secret hopes were vain.

"I didn't say anything about making a play for Miss Marian, did I?"

It was the first time he had called her "Miss Marian"; the first time, indeed, he had ever referred to any girl by such a colloquialism. In New York, a fellow simply called a girl plain Peggy or Sadie or whatever her name happened to be, but it was pleasant to use Miss Thorndike's name in this manner. She would naturally expect him to call her "Miss Marian" if he happened to mention her at all.

"Where do you get that stuff—linking me with Miss Marian?" he demanded.

The Negro eyed him with a dull stare. "Seuse me, suh—mebbe Ah uses mah mouth too much."

The odd part about it was that Eddie was not disheartened by Tobe's prediction that he would have no success with Miss Marian. Probably the old fellow was prejudiced against him because he was an outsider. Still, much useful information might be gained from the black man.

"You think I'm not good enough for her, eh?"

The Negro remained defiantly silent. There was a wall between them. Eddie felt the other regarded him with indefinite suspicion; it was a new kind of barrier. If a simple old Negro felt this way toward him, he wondered about the opposition he would encounter from the white folks if he tried to step over the line and make himself one of them.

It was pleasant enough to dream wildly in his mind about Miss Marian but even a servant had realized instantly how far apart they really were.

"You don't think much of me, do you, Tobe?"

"A guy's got to be born here and live here all his life in this neighborhood before you think he is human, I suppose?"

"You're right. Ah reckon."

"A guy's got to be born here and live here all his life in this neighborhood before you think he is human, I suppose?"

"No, suh."

"Well, I want to tell you something, black boy—don't you worry your head about me none a-tall. Maybe you ain't used to a guy like me but you might as well get accustomed to the idea of having me on the place, because I'm going to stick around for a while. Mr. Paradine hasn't got any objections to me, and you ought to be the last one to try to put on a high hat."

"I ain't said nothing agin you," Tobe grumbled.

"The worst of it, Tobe, is that you are absolutely right about one thing," Eddie said, sitting down on an empty box beside the kitchen table. "Miss Marian is a million miles above me, and nobody knows it better than I do. But what I don't get straight is your idea that these fellows around here, that you call quality, are so awfully hot. What kind of guys are they, anyway, that gives them so much class in your eyes? What have they that I ain't got? Is it money?"

"Tain't money."

"Maybe they're good looking guys?"

"No, suh, it's different from dat. Tain't nothing you kin lay your hands on. Some folks is jest bohn quality an' some ain't—dat's all. Onliest thing is, dey ain't got no time fo' any trash kind o' people."

"And you take one good look at me and make up your mind right away that I am trash. Is that it?"

But there was an innate gentility in the old Negro that disclaimed at once any such low opinion of a white man—particularly, if the white man were present.

"No, suh! I ain't said nothing like dat. What I mean is, you is a foreigner heah an' folks ain't zwine to believe anything different."

Eddie smiled, but he was not exactly happy.

"That's rich—me a foreigner! Well, don't imagine I'm worrying about what anybody on earth thinks about me. All that prejudice stuff runs for Sweeney. I'm just a New York boy trying to get along in the country." He grinned.

"Just forget this whole conversation, Uncle. Here—take this."

He extended a silver half dollar toward Tobe, but the old Negro looked at it without movement to accept.

"No, suh; thank you suh, very kindly. It's working fo' Marse Penfield an' I wouldn't like fo' me to take it."

An odd thought occurred suddenly to Eddie. Maybe this old fellow had belonged to Mr. Penfield.

"Say, you're pretty old, Tobe. You didn't use to be a slave, did you?"

The white kinky head was turned slightly away.

"I was bahn on dis eery plantation befo' de wah," Tobe said, with a tone that was, somehow, hushed.

Eddie left the room and went upstairs. Penfield Paradine was stretched out under the covers of his bed, an inert husk of a man. His voice was dry, brittle.

"It's good to have you around the place," he said. "It seems like new life has come into the house."

Eddie sat with him till the old man drifted off into a light sleep. Back in his own room, Eddie lit a cigarette.

"I am not like these people down here," he told himself secretly. "They think I am some kind of a foreigner."

He got up abruptly and looked at the reflection of his face in a square toilet mirror that sat atop a mahogany highboy. It was the first time he had ever really studied himself.

No More Gas In Stomach and Bowels

If you wish to be permanently relieved of gas in stomach and bowels take Skaugs's Stomach Remedy which is prepared especially for stomach gas and all the bad effects resulting from gas pressure.

That empty, gnawing feeling at the pit of the stomach will disappear; that anxious, nervous feeling with heart palpitation will vanish, and you will again be able to take a deep breath without discomfort.

That drowsy, sleepy feeling after dinner will be replaced by a desire for activity. Bloating will cease. Your limbs, arms and fingers will no longer feel cold and "go to sleep" because Skaugs's Stomach Remedy prevents gas from interfering with the circulation. A full size bottle for $1.

PER M. LARSON, First National Bank Bldg., Brainerd, Minnesota. 47628

State of Minnesota. State Auditor's Office. St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 21, 1929.

Notice is hereby given that on October 1, 1929, at 10 o'clock a. m., in the office of the county auditor, at Brainerd, Crow Wing County, in the State of Minnesota, I will offer for sale certain unsold state lands and also those state lands which have reverted to the state by reason of the non-payment of interest.

Terms of Sale:

Fifteen per cent of the purchase price is payable to the County Treasurer at the time of sale. The unpaid balance is payable at any time in whole or in part within forty years from the date of sale. Interest rate of four per cent per annum, due on June 1st of each year; provided, that the interest can be paid at any time within the interest year without penalty. In effect, this means that the interest may be paid any time between June first and May thirty-first without penalty.

The appraised value of timber when so stated, must be paid in full at the time of sale.

All mining rights are reserved to the State by the laws of the State.

All lands are sold subject to any and all ditch taxes thereon.

Lands on which the interest has become delinquent may be redeemed at any time up to the hour of sale or before resale, to the actual purchaser. Such lands are under the caption:

"Delinquent Lands."

No person can purchase more than 320 acres of land, provided, however, that State lands purchased previous to 1905 are not charged against such purchaser.

Agents acting for purchasers must furnish proof of authority.

Appraisers' report showing quality and kind of soil are on file in this office. Lists giving legal descriptions of lands to be offered may be obtained of the State Auditor at St. Paul, and of the County Auditor at the county seat.

RAY P. CHASE, State Auditor. 71448
